

THE LAW IS CHANGING – DON'T GET LEFT OUT!

We need your permission to stay in touch

New data protection laws mean we need your permission to stay in touch, even if you have given us permission before.

Opera Prelude began in 2010 and has supported and encouraged over 40 of the finest young artists as they embark on their professional careers – some of our earliest intake are well on the way to success with significant solo roles and critically acclaimed reviews. We present almost 75 opera related events throughout the year and benefit from the continued interest of many celebrated and distinguished performers who graciously give their time to our young artists. Thanks to the generous support of Age Unlimited, we perform across RBKC in elderly care homes sharing cups of tea after our free admission concerts with the residents. We have given away over £18,000 in mini-grants and bursaries since becoming a charity in 2014.

It is no exaggeration to say that your support is truly vital to the life and work of Opera Prelude and we hope that you will allow us to remain in touch with you, as we always have done, with e-news letters and occasional invitations or thank you letters in the post.

Don't miss out on news about:

Opera Prelude's events – lecture recitals, concerts, masterclasses and workshops

Singer's news – success stories and performance reviews

Updates on our intergenerational concerts and outreach work

Bursaries and grants we have been able to give, thanks to your support

Yes please, I am happy to hear from you (tick those that apply)
